EARLY CHILDHOOD RESOURCE DIRECTORY

June 1986

INTRODUCTION

This directory is designed to be used by anyone seeking information about programs and services for young children and their families in Montana. We hope this will be useful to a wide variety of Montanans, including but not limited to:

Parents
Foster parents
Child care providers
Health care workers
Counselors

Early childhood teachers
Program directors
Service organizations
School districts
Policy makers

CRITERIA

Deciding who to include in the directory was not an easy task. It was necessary had to make some limitations on content. The following summary of listings in each geographic area should clarify content:

1. CHILD CARE PROGRAMS - Day care centers and preschool programs. These include both full and part-time programs for children, birth through school-age.
2. CHILD CARE INFORMATION AND REFERRAL - These are sources of information for child care programs. We did not include Group and Family Home Day Cares in the directory. The information and referral listings should help identify those valuable services. Some of these agencies also offer support and training for child care professionals.
3. PARENTING RESOURCES - County Extension offices are included in this section along with a variety of other services for parents including Big Brothers and Sisters Programs. We did not include Scouts, 4-H, and Campfire with the hope that public schools make this information available. We did not include dance schools, gymnastics schools and other similar programs.
4. SERVICES FOR SPECIAL NEEDS CHILDREN - We attempted to identify services for children and families with developmentally disabled children.
5. COUNSELING AND CRISIS SERVICES - Mental Health Clinics, Women in Transition/Displaced Homemakers, Battered Women's Shelters. Drug/alcohol counseling referrals can be made by contacting any of the counseling services listed. Crisis Lines are often listed as well.
6. HEALTH AND NUTRITION - Public Health Departments, Women, Infants and Children (WIC) programs and others are included in this section.
7. EMERGENCY FOOD, CLOTHING AND HOUSING - Each area has specific services for emergency assistance from second-hand stores to low-income housing.

PROCESS

The information was gathered by Early Childhood Project field consultants and others in their areas. The process began in the Spring of 1985. We have made every attempt to be consistent, however, with any project of this magnitude in a state as large as Montana, inconsistencies are inevitable. Every community varies in how it meets people's needs. We regret omissions and will be happy to announce mistakes and/or additions in our bi-monthly Early Childhood CONNECTIONS newsletter. If you are interested in finding out more about the Project or the field consultant in a specific area, please contact the Early Childhood Project office, 994-4746.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

The state of Montana has been divided into thirteen multi-county areas by the Early Childhood Project for the purpose of coordinating support services, training and creating child care teams for identification of community needs related to young children.

Services are listed in this directory according to the geographic area in which they are located. The thirteen geographic areas are listed on the next page and indicate the counties included in each area. Each area has a colored title page for easy access. The color for each area's title page is indicated next to the area name on the following page. The Montana map has been included for further clarification of the 13 areas.

Area services are categorized into seven groups in the following order:

CHILD CARE PROGRAMS (including child care centers and preschool programs)

TYPES OF CHILD CARE IN MONTANA

Family Day Care Homes offer a home-like atmosphere and flexible schedules for working parents. Homes can care for three under the age of two with a maximum of six children at any one time. A quality day care home offers a variety of child-appropriate activities, individualized care and limited television.

Family Day Care Homes are REGISTERED by the Montana Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services (SRS).

Group Day Care Homes are settings where two adults provide care for a maximum of twelve (12) children with a limit of six under the age of two. This type of care is often provided in a private residence as well. A quality group home should provide the child with a variety of age-appropriate activities, quiet and active play, self-directed and adult-directed experiences and healthy sleeping and eating routines.

Group Day Care Homes are also REGISTERED by SRS.

Day Care Centers care for 13 or more children, ages two years and older. Montana regulations require one staff person for every ten children. Centers offer both full and part-day child care. Centers may offer a variety of learning activities and programs, varying levels of staff qualifications and parent involvement. A high quality center should seek to meet the emotional, social, physical and intellectual needs of each child.

Day Care Centers are LICENSED by SRS.

Infant Care Centers are designed to care for children between the ages of six weeks and two years. There must be one adult for every four children at all times. Infant care centers are a new child care option in Montana.

Infant Care Centers must be LICENSED by SRS.

Preschool Programs are designed for three six-year olds as a part-day educational and socialization program. Philosophies, approaches and activities vary greatly among preschools.

At this point in time, Preschools are not regulated in the state of Montana.

Other - Many families use a combination of child care arrangements to meet their needs. For example, a preschool program in the morning and a family day care home for afternoon care. In-home care is another option, i.e. a caregiver comes into the family's home to care for the child(ren). Relatives and friends often do child care on a small scale and individual basis.

HIGH QUALITY CHILD CARE - Identification, Search and Checklist

During the past 15 years, research has demonstrated high quality care does have positive long-term effects on children. We have included information for anyone seeking to understand what high quality child care is by including the criteria used by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs, a division of the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

Criteria for High Quality Early Childhood Programs

Ten essential elements of high quality child care have been identified by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). They include:

1. Interactions among Staff and Children

All areas of young children's development (social, emotional, cognitive and physical) are integrated. Optimal development in all areas derives from positive, supportive, individualized relationships with adults. Young children also develop both socially and intellectually through peer interaction.

2. Curriculum

The curriculum is not just the goals of the program and the planned activities but also the daily schedule, the availability and use of materials, transitions between activities, and the way in which routine tasks of living are implemented. Criteria for curriculum implementation reflect the knowledge that young children learn through active manipulation of the environment and concrete experiences which contribute to concept development.

3. Staff-Parent Interaction

Young children are integrally connected to their families. Programs cannot adequately meet the needs of children unless they also recognize the importance of the child's family and develop strategies to work effectively with families. All communication between centers and families should be based on the concept that parents are and should be the principal influence in children's lives.

4. Staff Qualifications and Development

The quality of the staff is the most important determinant of the quality of an early childhood program. Research has found that staff training in child development and/or early childhood education is related to positive outcomes for children such as increased social interaction with adults, development of prosocial behaviors, and improved language and cognitive development.

5. Administration

The way in which a program is administered will affect all the interactions within the program. Effective administration creates an environment which facilitates the provision of good quality care for children. Effective administration includes good communication among all involved persons, positive community relations, fiscal stability, and attention to the needs of working conditions of staff members.

6. Staffing

An important determinant of the quality of a program is the way in which it is staffed. Well-organized staffing patterns facilitate individualized care. Research strongly suggests that smaller group sizes and larger number of staff to children are related to positive outcomes for children such as increased interaction between adults and children, and less aggression, more cooperation among children.

7. Physical Environment

The physical environment affects the behavior and development of the people, both children and adults, who live and work in it. The quality of the physical space and materials provided affects the level of involvement of the children and the quality of interaction between adults and children. The amount, arrangement, and use of space, both indoors and outdoors, are to be evaluated.

8. Health and Safety

The provision of a safe and healthy environment is essential. No amount of good curriculum planning or positive adult-child interaction can compensate for an environment that is dangerous for children. Good quality early childhood programs act to prevent illness and accidents, are prepared to deal with emergencies should they occur, and also educate children concerning safe and healthy practices.

9. Nutrition and Food Service

Children must be provided with adequate nutrition and also must be educated concerning good eating habits.

10. Evaluation

On-going and systematic evaluation is essential to improving and maintaining the quality of an early childhood program. Evaluation efforts are based on program goals and assessment of needs and identify both strengths and weaknesses of program components.

THE SEARCH FOR CHILD CARE

The search for appropriate child care can be one of the most difficult tasks for any parent. Where a child spends part or all of his/her day during the first five years of his/her life is of critical importance in the scope of the child's life and early development. Child care arrangements also can have an effect on family life so it is essential to find the best care for your child from the beginning.

The quality of any one child care setting depends upon many variables, both concrete and intangible. The total environment--social, emotional, physical and intellectual of child care facilities varies greatly depending upon staff qualifications, daily schedule, age of children, program philosophy and discipline techniques.

We recommend to all parents thorough investigation into available child care. Time spent initially to carefully consider options for your child will undoubtedly result in a more positive and stable child care arrangement for your child and your family.

We suggest parents visit several facilities before making a decision about where to place their child. Many facilities are regulated by the Montana Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services (SRS). This means that these facilities meet minimal standards established by SRS. Homes and Group Home providers that are registered with SRS have liability insurance, have participated in a one-day orientation session, are at least 18 years of age, have signed a personal health statement, have never been convicted of child abuse and have a home that is safe for children. Only 15% random sample of these homes are visited and evaluated annually.

Child care centers that are licensed with SRS are re-evaluated annually. Registration and licensing does not ensure quality. Ultimately consumers of child care - PARENTS - and child advocates must take an active role in quality control by thoroughly investigating child care options and keeping in touch with what goes on in your child's day away from you.

The following checklist is designed to help parents carefully examine a child care facility and includes helpful questions to ask as a wise consumer. Suggestions for observation of centers and homes are included.

HOW TO CHOOSE A GOOD CHILD CARE CENTER

A Checklist for Parents

Parents have the right and responsibility to make their own careful choices — to be good consumers of child care. If possible, visit more than one program, take your child with you and observe when children are present. The following checklist will provide some guidelines of things to look for and questions to ask.

BASIC INFORMATION — Before you observe, ask the director or head teacher:

- ☐ Is the center licensed?
- ☐ What hours and days is the center open?
- ☐ What are the fees? When must they be paid?
- ☐ Is parent participation encouraged? How much is required?
- ☐ Are naps required or optional?
- ☐ What is the daily schedule of activities? Is it consistent from one day to the next?
- ☐ Are the children grouped by age or interest or ability?
- ☐ How large are the groups and how many teachers work with each group? (adult/child ratio)
- ☐ Who is the main person responsible and how much training and experience has s/he had?
- ☐ Are children allowed to watch TV? How much and what programs?
- ☐ Is the center willing to deal with the child's allergy, special diet or handicap?

IN YOUR OBSERVATION, does the physical environment:

- ☐ Have a clean, comfortable, "children are welcome" look? Is children's art work prominently displayed?
- ☐ Have adequate heat, light, ventilation?
- ☐ Seem clean and safe? (no sharp edges on equipment or furniture)
- ☐ Have adequate indoor and outdoor space for the number of children present? Does it seem crowded?
- ☐ Have space for a child to play alone if s/he wishes?
- ☐ Have clean space for naps and sick children?
- ☐ Have safety provisions such as gates on stairs, caps on electrical outlets and locked cabinet for medicines and poisons?
- ☐ Have a space for each child's belongings?

SOCIAL CLIMATE

- ☐ How are conflict situations handled?
- ☐ Are the children encouraged to express their feelings openly?
- ☐ Are the methods of guiding behavior and discipline acceptable to you?
- ☐ Are both boys and girls encouraged to try all activities and roles?
- ☐ Do the teachers show patience, warmth, and a sense of humor?
- ☐ Do relationships between teachers and children reflect respect and trust?
- ☐ Are parents made to feel welcome and encouraged to share their concerns?
- ☐ Do the children seem to be happy, relaxed and playing cooperatively?

During the past 15 years, research has demonstrated that quality care does have positive effects on children. In addition to a safe and healthy environment, quality factors to examine are:

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
| * Group size | * Parents role |
| * Staff/Child ratio | * Discipline |
| * Staff training | * The Director |
| * Whether or not the program has clear goals | * The Environment |

LEARNING CLIMATE:

- [] Are there a variety of supplies and learning materials for —
 - * Building; i.e., blocks, legos and small toys.
 - * Creative art; i.e., paint, crayons, scissors and play doh, etc.
 - * Dramatic play; i.e., dress up clothes, housekeeping equipment and other props.
 - * Listening; i.e., books and records.
 - * Active play; i.e., climber, balls and tricycles.
- [] Is there a sufficient amount of toys and materials for the size of the group?
- [] Do children appear to be busy with constructive activities?
- [] Is there a balance of free play and guided learning?
- [] Do teachers encourage children to use materials creatively?
- [] Do teachers seem organized with activities planned in advance?
- [] Is feedback provided to the parents on children's progress?
- [] Are most toys and materials accessible to children and organized so children know what is available and where it is located in the classroom?

HEALTH, NUTRITION AND MORE SAFETY:

- [] What is the policy regarding sick children?
- [] What is the procedure in case of emergency (accidents, fire, etc.)?
- [] Are there alternate exits in case of fire?
- [] What snacks and meals are provided and are they nutritious?
- [] Are there soft surfaces under climbers?
- [] Is the outside play area safe from traffic and water?
- [] Are seat belts or car seats used on field trips?

ESPECIALLY FOR INFANTS

- [] Is the provider attentive and loving to infants?
- [] Does s/he provide optimum amounts of touching, smiling, looking, talking?
- [] Is there opportunity for attachment to take place between infant and one special caregiver - rather than passing infants around between several caregivers?
- [] Does s/he provide stimulation with toys and other objects?
- [] Does s/he permit freedom to explore, including floor freedom - does not over-use playpens, walkers, swings?
- [] Does s/he regularly change diapers and clean infants?
- [] Does s/he feed and nap according to individual infants needs?
- [] Does s/he cooperate with parents' decisions on type of food, diapers to use, and daily schedule?

WARNING SIGNALS

The center does not encourage parents to observe or visit the center.

Children are without adequate adult guidance or are outside the vision range of a teacher.

The teachers are frequently scolding, ordering and making children feel guilty.

The teachers are physically rough and abusive with children.

The building is dirty and/or unsafe.

The center seems to be on shaky grounds financially and doesn't appear to have any consistent program.

CHECK LIST FOR FAMILY DAY CARE HOMES OR GROUP HOMES

1. Ask the child care provider for character references. When you call the reference, listen to their tone of voice. Most people don't like to give bad evaluations. What do they like best and least about the child care provider? Would they send their child there again?
2. Ask the care-giver to see a copy of their child care contract and discuss the parent/care-giver's philosophy, activity program, discipline practiced, hours, standards for illness, etc.
3. How do the care-givers handle discipline? (It is illegal in Montana to use any kind of corporal punishment in child care homes or centers). Give specific problems (i.e. My child hits another child). How will the care-givers manage this problem?
4. Does the care-giver emphasize learning activities or is it free play? Do you feel comfortable with the caregiver and the place?
5. What is the experience and background of the care-giver?
6. Is the care-giver involved in on-going education? If so, what kind? (i.e. local and state workshops, Child Care Food Program, etc.)
7. What is the amount and kind of adult interaction with the children?
8. Is outdoor play constantly supervised? What about indoor play?
9. Are meals well-balanced, nutritious and appealing?
10. Do the activities seem well-planned and age appropriate?
11. Is the parent expected to take part in the program? In what way?

Signs of Quality Child Care

The care-giver relates positively toward the children and calls them by name.

Care-givers are cheery and gentle rather than loud and obtrusive. They handle conflicts firmly while explaining their actions.

Children are busy and enjoy what they're doing.

Plenty of indoor and outdoor space with equipment to play on, including age-appropriate toys.

WARNING SIGNALS

Children are regimented with enforced sitting in chairs, required to ask permission to go to the bathroom, or are cajoled to eat even when not hungry.

A television left on indiscriminately.

Long enforced naps when the child is considered naughty for not going to sleep.

Avoid care-givers who are negative with the children, scold, give orders, make them feel guilty, yell at children, spank them and who dominate the room continuously so that children may not make some decisions for themselves.

Check the atmosphere of the room. Are the children tense, quarreling or fighting?

Watch out for chaotic conditions where anything goes: a child can hit another and the teacher doesn't interfere.

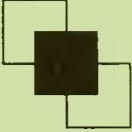

The child care provider does not encourage the parents to observe or visit the home.

There are too many children for adequate supervision and attention.

The child care provider is unclear about how long he or she will operate the home or how consistent the child care arrangement will be.

There are few activities planned for the children and/or little adult guidance.
